Excerpt: . . . take it that the Premier answered everything in the speech of the honorable member for Wanganui except the Native portion, and that was also cleared up by the exhaustive speech of the Native Minister. If the Government had been guilty of any act of disqualification requiring an Indemnity Bill, as for instance when eight or nine gentlemen were placed on the Government benches contrary to law; if there had been any illegal dealings with land, or any corruption on the part of the Government; if there had been any Committee of Inquiry refused relative to abuses by the Government, or any failure to begin or to carry out the public works of the colony authorized by Parliament, then I could understand this vote of want of confidence being brought forward. I could also understand an indictment being brought against the Government if there had...
