Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The American Spirit: Letters of Briggs Kilburn Adams In the autumn of 1916 among the seventy or eighty students enrolled in a course in English Composition that I was giving at Harvard University was Briggs Kilburn Adams. For some time he remained only a name to me; yet in the themes that bore his name I soon found myself taking a special interest. For they revealed two facts about him: he had spent the previous summer driving an ambulance in France, and he had unusual ability to describe what he had seen and felt. When he came to me for a conference, I recognized in him the boy who had been sitting in the front row and looking up at me during my occasional talks to the class, with an expression embarrassingly intent - relieved now and then from any suggestion of over-appreciation by a flicker, equally embarrassing, of quizzical humor. He was tall and well built and handsome; his bluish-gray eyes were shaded by long, curling eyelashes, his mouth had a gentle, sensitive curve,...
